A woman with long, wavy brown hair and a young child with curly blonde hair are sitting at a white desk. The woman is on the left, leaning over the child, who is pointing at the laptop screen. The laptop is open, showing a colorful website. On the desk, there is a small potted plant with green leaves and a red notebook with a pen. In the background, there is a wooden bookshelf filled with books and a window with white curtains.

The laptop your family needs. Without the cost.

Tech4Families helps eligible families without a suitable computer at home access a new laptop at no cost, through the Digital Poverty Alliance's partnership with Currys.

Giving more families access to the technology that everyday life increasingly depends on.

Being able to get online is now part of everyday life, from schoolwork and job applications to accessing services, managing money and staying connected. But for many families, the cost of a laptop remains a real barrier.

Through our partnership with Currys, Tech4Families helps eligible families without access to a laptop at home apply for one of their own, giving children and parents the technology they need to take part fully in everyday life.

A laptop your family can keep

Families who receive a laptop through Tech4Families can keep it. There is nothing to return and no rental agreement. It belongs to the family and is there to use at home whenever it is needed.

Powered by Currys customers

Tech4Families is funded by small donations made by Currys customers across the UK through its partnership with micro-donation charity Pennies.

Together, those donations help the Digital Poverty Alliance provide laptops to families who might otherwise struggle with the cost of getting the technology they need at home.

Apply for a laptop for your family

If Tech4Families is available in your area and you are the parent or carer of a young person aged 4 to 16 who does not have access to a laptop at home, you can apply.

Understanding the scale of digital poverty

Access to technology remains uneven across the UK, with children and adults still affected by digital poverty. Tech4Families focuses on one part of that challenge by helping families get access to a laptop at home.

1 in 5 Children in the UK are living in digital poverty.

1 in 7 Adults in the UK are living in digital poverty.
